ARTBREAK™ PRAGUE AUTUMN

artbreak<sup>TM</sup> Celebrates Spring

After a long and gray central European winter Prague greets sunny springtime with an explosion of artistic events of all varieties. Join with us for a bloom of nature and creativity in (who can argue?) the world's most beautiful city. From April 17 to 23 you will feast on the offerings available in music, dance, and visual arts – while developing your own inner artist during our fantastic and joyous morning artists' workshops.

artbreak<sup>TM</sup> at the Prague Fringe Festival

From May 29 to June 4 artbreak<sup>TM</sup> coincides with Prague's superb Fringe Festival – a bonanza for lovers of off-the-beaten-path theater and music. We will indulge ourselves on the best half dozen or so of the Festival's hundreds of one-hour plays and performances, spiced with an evening or two of Prague's unmatched opera and symphony offerings. The weather is also perfect for plein air painting sessions during our inspiring morning workshops.

artbreak<sup>TM</sup> Summer Solstice

During our June 19 - 25 artbreak<sup>TM</sup> the sun essentially never sets and we will be going all-out on Prague's modern dance scene. Recharge your creative batteries during your morning workshops, and try out new possibilities in painting, collage and ceramics. Then join us for a once-in-a-lifetime celebration of wanton creativity, including the city's leading jazz artists and breakthrough performances at the annual Tanec Praha international dance festival.

artbreak<sup>TM</sup> Babi Leto

Our September 18 - 24 session is one of the best times of the year to pay a visit to Prague, transitioning sweetly between summer and autumn. The Czechs call this pleasantly warm time of year "Babi Leto" – Grandma's Summer – while North Americans know it as "Indian Summer". Like photography? The light is superb. It is also is time for a venerable Czech tradition: savoring yeasty new wine -- called burcak in Czech. And – better yet – the arts in all their splendid forms are heating up after a long summer pause.

artbreak<sup>TM</sup> Prague Autumn

Our October 16 – 22 artbreak<sup>TM</sup> finds the Prague arts scene at a high point. The symphony orchestras are in full swing, the opera season is heating up, and galleries are hosting openings for artists daily. The weather is, well, autumn. That means golden architecture framed by golden leaves, and unforgettable sunsets on the Charles Bridge. Don a toasty sweater, and see for yourself how this city earned its name, "Golden Prague".
